DINNER MEETING

The recently formed Toronto Music Operators Association held a dinner meeting on Tuesday, October 20th in Toronto, which was very well attended. All of the executive and the Board of Governors were there, including Jack Howey from Milford Bay. This shows the interest in the organization and the support it is getting. The regular business meetings will be held once a month and it is planned to have a dinner meeting at least every three months and more often if necessary.

At the meeting it was disclosed that 80% of the locations in Toronto were operating on the 35% as set up by the Association and it was indicated that the remaining 20% would be signed up within 90 days.

The members of the Association are very happy with the progress which has been made and they would like to help the other operators throughout Canada, to form other regional groups. They will give all the help they can in drafting by-laws and arranging procedure etc and will send a representative to help any new group, if needed. They would also be pleased to have any operator representing another area drop in on their meetings and arrangements for this can be made through the executive or the secretary.

This Association has aroused a lot of comment across the country and it is hoped that other large centres will form similar Associations, which could be joined to form a strong national association. Differences could be made for local or area conditions but the overall policy and procedure could apply. This would really stabilize the business and assure the operators of strong representation in fight-adverse legislation or conditions while assuring them of a fair return for their work and investment.

OPEN LETTER TO ALL CANADIANS IN THE INDUSTRY

Local Organizations of Operators Is a Must for Every City and County in Canada

YOU, the reader of this Editorial, in all probability, are engaged in Automatic Music, Amusement Machines, or Vending Equipment.

YOU, regardless of where you live and how long you have been in this business, somewhere along the line have had differences big or small with your competitors.

TODAY, October 1959 we ask you in this Anniversary Editorial to consider strongly forgetting these differences and go to your competitor and ask him to join with you in forming a local Association . . . (even if it's only 2, 3 or 7 members in the group) . . . for the following reasons:

In view of the fact that the time is long past we must present to the Canadian Public a more favorable picture of each of our industries . . . you must agree amongst yourselves to do such things as:

(a) Arrange to donate equipment to local worthwhile charities . . . . teen-towns, groups, "Y" classes, Police Athletic Clubs, Women's Organizations, Rotarians, Lion's, Kinsmen, etc., and to arrange publicity with local newspapers and T.V. stations for pics with the names of your members and group prominently put across . . . Even buy advertising space in newspapers to get the angle across if necessary.

(b) Periodically you should approach City or Town Councils with the fact that you have some used equipment you'd like to donate to any civic organization they suggest . . . whether it be a music box or a vending piece or an amusement machine or gun.

There are scores of ways which a group of operators can devise to be of service to their community . . . . if you wouldform your local group this week . . . GET R OLLING . . . and let us know and we will be available to lend publicity in getting the message across both on a local level and a national level.

PLEASE LET THIS SINK IN . . . it's easy to do . . . but no one can do it better than you.

We toss the ball to YOU . . . you carry it and let us know how we can help you.

REMEMBER . . . we want an organized group in every town and city . . . and every county in Canada.

It won't cost you anything . . . but a little time and will pay off handsomely in dividends in the future.

May I please hear from you right away how you are getting along?

Thanks . . . and GOOD LUCK.

Eddie Sargent,
Editor.

THRIVES ON HUNGER

Al Siegel and Deputy Governor Bell of Nevada, at Reno where entertainment is tops.

Al Siegel thrives on hunger. Every night he has about 2000 hungry people seeking food and entertainment at his Elmwood Casino and Club Oasis, but this is not the only hunger he knows. He has an inner hunger, a driving desire to do things and to do them well. Ever since he arrived in Toronto for the first time, at the age of four, he has been driven to produce. He arrived from Kiev, with his parents and since then Toronto has been a major location in the building of his large entertainment and vending empires.

Young Al Siegel attended Ogden and Ryerson schools in Toronto until he was fifteen and then he apprenticed as an electrician. With the application which was to mark him for success, Al worked at his trade and soon owned his own business. One of his big jobs was the wiring of Rouyn in northern Quebec. This city was established in the midst of a bushland wilderness. Memories of this early work include the thrill of turning on the first light in this area, a 200 watt light outside a large work shack.

When the depression hit after the big stock market crash, it affected all building trades and slowed Al down with everybody else. However, he had no intention of marking time and so left Toronto and the electrical field to join the large group of automotive workers in Detroit.

While he was in Detroit he noticed apples being sold on the streets for the first time. This aroused his curiosity and investigation indicated the potential existing in the vending field. He sought and won permission from Frank Murphy, then Mayor of Detroit, to vend ice cream in a similar manner. He worked out equipment constructed of balsam wood, lined with dry ice to create mobile vendors for his ice cream. Soon he had a large group of veterans selling his ice cream on a stick. From this start he returned to Toronto, where he soon built up a terrific ice cream trade in four ice cream parlors.

Al stopped selling ice cream on a stick after going into the matter with the owner of the patent on the idea. However, while discussing it with the man from New York, Al became involved in the publishing of sheet music for news-stand distribution. This required facilities for printing and so Al stepped right in and acquired a printing house which has since prospered.

Another musical venture, which sprang from this, was the pressing of phonograph records. This did not succeed to the extent of the others. However the printing plant still prints the envelopes for packaging records.

The contacts in the musical field led to a Canadian distributorship for Wurlitzer coin operated music equipment. With headquarters in Toronto, this operation employs about thirty people across the country.

This is only one phase of his selling and distributing operation. He has built up one of the biggest vending businesses in Canada, handling vending machines which vend everything from cigarettes and coffee to clean laundry. His contacts in this field enabled him to install over $100,000 worth of vending equipment for the United States Government in the Ernest Harmon air force base at Stephenville in Newfoundland. Such large sales and installations are not unusual for his hard hitting, efficient sales force.

A year or so after the last World War, Al Siegel became involved in show business with two others as partners. At the beginning the three partners did everything themselves at the Elmwood when they bought it, even participating in the show if required. On one occasion Al put on blackface and did an Al Jolson bit. Eventually Al bought out his two partners and became sole owner of the Elmwood. He has built up the property until it now has a value close to $2,000,000, about 12 to 13 times the original investment. The Motel which adjoins the Elmwood is very popular and is usually filled. In fact, not so long ago Al had to stay at a rival motel on one of his visits to Windsor. He has since built a luxurious penthouse at the Elmwood so that he can now be sure of accommodation.

A more recent venture is the Toronto Barclay Hotel, which Al bought about a year ago. Extensive renovations to the hotel and the building up of the Club Oasis has already more than doubled his original investment, estimated at $500,000.

The Club Oasis seats about 450 people as a supper club. It is one of the best spots in Ontario for good food and outstanding entertainment. Al has plans for it, which will make it one of the best in the country. The famous Elmwood has boasted such names from the field of entertainment as Sammy Davis, Eartha Kitt, Milton Berle, Billie Daniels, Sophie Tucker, Victor Borge, Liberace and Pattie Page and Al plans to have these stars and others at the Barclay.

Sammy Davis Jr. had the Elmwood bursting at the seams and as Al says, "Sammy Davis was a sort of experiment, which proved very successful and there is no doubt he will be back in the fall for a long run".

Al is still restless, still driven by that urge to produce and although he could sit back at 54 and relax, he has no such plans. He intends to keep busy, seeking to improve what he has and willing to take on more. His zest for living and achieving is contagious as those who work with him will tell you. He imbues others with the same desire to forge ahead, overcome obstacles and succeed.

Al isn't impressed by his success. As he says "I could cash in any time and what good is money then? When you die it doesn't really matter whether you leave your family a small fortune or a large one. One thing I am proud of is that I employ 350 people in my organization and and that is worthwhile".

There is little doubt that, although he has the biggest vending distributorship operation in the country, he will continue to expand and create in this field, which holds such a bright future for so many.

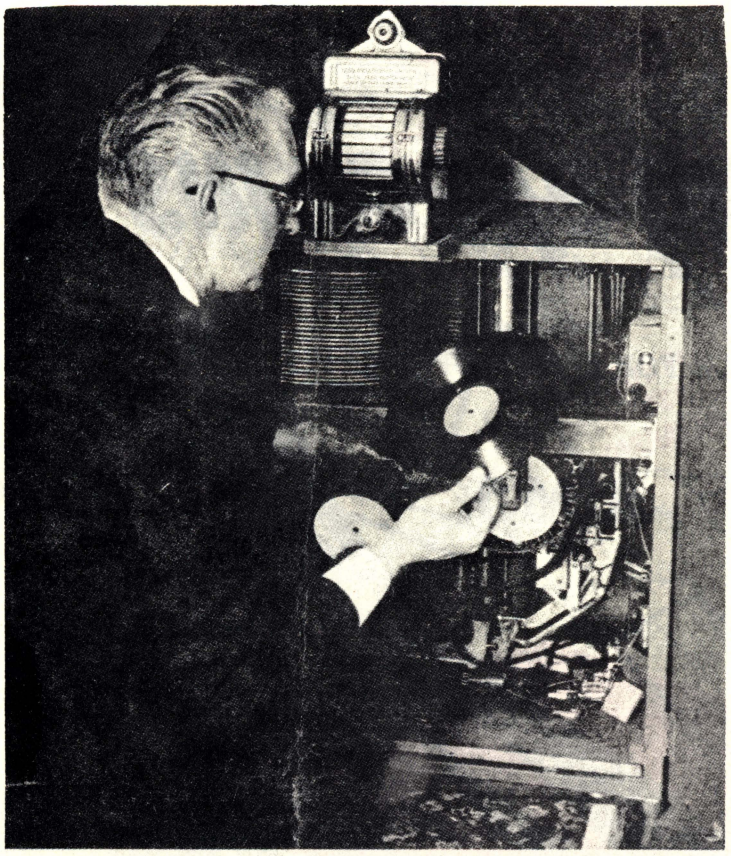
Tiny Church

has room for only six pews, but with a jukebox playing sermons for 10 different denominations



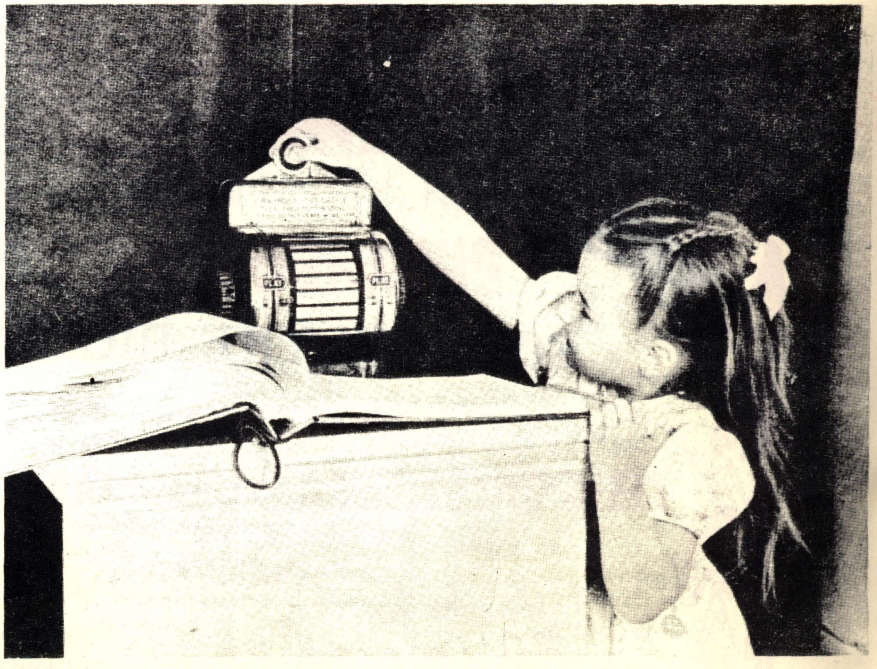
Rev. E. C. O'Brien, founder of the tiny chapel on the Dinosaur Trail near Drumheller, Alta., instals a hymn recording in its jukebox, which also gives out sermons at the touch of a button.

"The World's Largest Little Church," a tiny wayside chapel on the Dinosaur Trail, in the Drumheller Badlands--an area of hills and valleys rich in petrified dinosaur bones and clam shells which are estimated to be in the region of 70 million years old.

In the first nine months after the chapel's dedication in July last year, more than 36,000 tourists passed through its narrow doorway. Inside, they found a jukebox--rigged to play at the touch of a button instead of the drop of a coin--with a repertoire of 10 sermons for different denominations and a dozen hymns. Six single-seat pews almost fill the interior of the chapel,which measures a mere 11 by seven feet. Eight "stained-glass" windows, painted by local sign painter Robert Gilson, line the white and pink wooden walls, and a retired locomotive bell hangs in the 12-foot steeple.

The chapel was founded by Rev. E.C. O'Brien, the 34-year-old minister of Drumheller Pentecostal Tabernacle. "It was all God's idea," says the pastor, who is a part-time newspaper correspondent and father of a six-year-old daughter.

Ten local clergymen recorded the brief meditations for the jukebox, which was donated by a Drumheller cafe.



Wedding March is jukebox selection by Lynn Boldt. The hymn most often selected: Abide With Me.

How to Boost 50c Plays

If an operator is disappointed in results when he installs machines with a 50-cent chute, the answer may lie in a first-person education program, according to Tony Biase, music operator.

Biase, who is currently converting most of his 55-machine phonograph string to 50-cent chutes wasn't so enthusiastic a year and a half ago. When he introduced his first 200-selection machines equipped with the jumbo chutes he chose 10 spots--all capable of maximum revenue--into which the 200's were rushed. In each case, Biase spent what he thought was an adequate amount of time in explaining the advantages of the 50-cent device to the location owner, manager, or person in charge.

"I thought I had wasted quite a bit of investment when the 50-cent chute proved a complete dud," Biase said.

"At the end of the first month, there weren't enough half-dollars in the coin box to provide any encouragement at all. In fact, I had just about concluded that people simply wouldn't spend 50 cents for music. Talking to other operators convinced me, however, that perhaps I hadn't done a thoro job of enlisting location owner co-operation. So I went around and began asking questions."

In one location after another, Biase was astonished to find nothing but a puzzled stare when he asked employees at such locations as restaurants and cocktail lounges whether they had any idea why the 50-cent chute wasn't being used.

In one spot, for example, which employs seven waitresses during the evening hours, Biase didn't find a single one who remembered his brief introduction on the 50-cent chute, and who, of course, could scarcely be expected to recommend it to their customers. Checking further into the matter, Biase found that the location owner in most cases hadn't bothered to mention the seven-for-50-cents, "bargain feature" which the half-dollar chute actually offered.

Somewhat nettled, Biase hit upon a simple expedient to get results. One by one, he escorted waitresses over to the phonograph in restaurant and cocktail locations, handed each one a half a dollar, asked her to drop it in the chute and then invited, "Choose any seven selections." This bit bit of practical demonstration "got thru" where endless description appartently did not. Anyhow, things began to change on all fronts, and it wasn't long before half-dollars were dropping into Biase's coin boxes.

Determined to put still more emphasis on the half-dollar feature, Biase bought himself a rubber stamp kit, of the type which allows the owner to set up his messages and printed up small signs, 3 1/2 by 4 inches, which he tapes on the front of each machine.

The sign read simply, "Music Sale!--If 10-cent numbers are hard on your pocketbook try our 50-cent special--seven records for a half a dollar!"

This clever bit of humor applied directly as a point of sale attraction, functioned so well that within a month's time, every habitue of his lead locations was thorly familiar with the half-dollar feature.

Now, each one of Biase's locations is showing at least 35 per cent of its take in half-dollars, play has increased across the board, and what was a definitely discouraging situation has changed to a brighter hue.

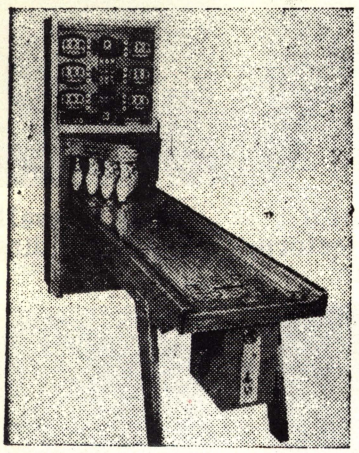
PRODUCT NEWS

United Ships "3-Way" Shuffle



Bill DeSelm of United Manufacturing Company, Chicago, announced the release of United's new "3-Way" shuffle alley.

"The best way to describe our '3-Way' shuffle alley," said Mr. DeSelm, "is to merely say that it is 3 popular games in 1, suitable for use on every location.

"Sample shipments are now being made to United's distributors," continued Mr. DeSelm, "and we urge operators to look this terrific game over, and play it."

"3-Way" shuffle alley, a 6 player game, comes in 2 models, the regular 3-way shuffle alley, and the De Luxe model, which has the 3-way Match Feature.

The game features "Flash scoring," which has the traveling light moving across the playboard for high score. The player can also play regulation scoring. This has all the features of regulation bowling. Bonus scoring offers bonus frames for high score. "3-Way" shuffle alley is 8 1/2 feet in length.

Williams "Titan" Gun

Sam Lewis of Williams Electronic Manufacturing Company, announced the company's new rifle target amusement game, "Titan".

"We very proudly announce 'Titan's' release to the trade," Mr. Lewis said, "for it is definitely a great successor to our previous stellar gun games, 'Vanguard', 'Hercules' and 'Crusader'."

"All three of our previous rifle games racked up enviable sales and record breaking production schedules", said Mr. Lewis, "and by all appearances 'Titan' will surpass even these fine records."

'Titan' is a bouncing ball target game, which has the target area on the playfield laid out so that the bouncing balls fall into line on the back. The player launches the balls by shooting at targets under the ball holes.

A new "super hole" has been placed at the bottom of the playfield, in the center of the target area. This feature triples the score when it is made. 2 light targets at each side of the playfield launch all balls when lit.

Another feature Mr. Lewis made particular mention of is the lighted scoring area above the playfield, which has a picture of a rocket thrust forward into the Universe.

"We are particularly proud of the beautiful cabinet," said Mr. Lewis, and we must emphasize that this cabinet was designed to fit into any size location, regardless of how large or small it is. The most important consideration is, of course, that it will definitely bring in high earnings to the location and the operator.

Kiddie Coin Ride AMUSEMENT MACHINES Work on Tight Margin

As Canada has over 1,700,000 kids in the 5 to 9 age bracket--and birth rates zooming at rate of half a million a year---the kiddie ride field is a large one.

When established and conservative firms such as Eatons and Loblaws are in the kiddie ride field--it shows that this field is bound to grow even bigger.

Many operators of kiddie rides claim that they also get kids in the 10 and even older age brackets to clamor for rides.

But, the majority maintain that the 5 to 9 age group is the most prominent, even tho there are a large number of riders in the 2 to 4 age bracket.

This, it is believed by all in the field, is a much bigger market than has ever before existed for any one type of specialized product in the amusement category.

Of course it is interesting, and very pleasant, to see mothers fathers seat their 2, 3 and 4 year olds into kiddie rides of all kinds, and carefully watch them enjoy such rides to an almost indescribable extreme.

But the big business continues in the 5 to 9 age group.

But, the coin-operated kiddie ride trade, like many other businesses has had to tighten its money spending because of rising costs and resulting slimmer profits.

As in other fields, smaller operators have to tread carefully and balance costs with income in case they fall behind.

Some smaller operators feeling the pinch, split commissions 50-50 to locations (rather than leave it at the 65%-35% or 60%-40%.) This of course only resulted in many of their operators being priced out of business.

Across Canada many of the operators are diversifying their kiddie ride routes with vending units putting them along side at good locations.

There are 3 items--now very familiar to the coin operating field--which keep operators off kiddie coin operated machines in a precarious position:

1. Mounting costs of repairs and service
2. Skyrocketing license and tax fees
3. Rising cost of equipment.

"GUS" WINTER

THIS OPERATOR DOESN'T MINCE WORDS!

Winnipeg, Man.

Dear Sir:

Enclosed please find cheque for $50 as a contribution towards the expenses incurred re: CAPAC.

We would like it if you would publish in Coin Box our opinion of an Association for coin machine operators and the suggested reducing of money split between locations and operators. Winnipeg Coin was the first to suggest a year ago such an Association in Manitoba. This was after certain coin machine operators moved into Manitoba and tried to ruin the coin machine business completely - so when we talk about federal organizations let's have a "clean face". Who was the one that brought higher percentages in Manitoba? Who was the one offering 3 months take and 50/50 split? Those are the people screaming today to have federal organizations because they see they are losing money.

Winnipeg Coin Machine were trying to co-operate with everybody but we hate double-crossers. Such people haven't any scruples in business and are trying to take advantage in such ways and get rid of the opposition. We understand that healthy competition in the coin machine business is necessary but not competition that is trying to ruin every other small operator. We fully agree with the opinions expressed in your magazine from operators across the country - this is very desirable but to tell the truth - can we trust each other?

This may be a bit strong for publication but we wanted you to hear our side of the question.

Yours truly,
Roman Kozoris, Manager.
